HISTORIA

In the Prado Museum has examples of preparatory drawings from all the series of engravings Goya produced throughout his career. Almost all of them, with a few exceptions, come from the collection of Valentín Carderera (1796-1880), whose heir, Mariano Carderera, sold a lot of 284 preparatory drawings to the Prado Museum in 1866. The Prado Museum has 75 of the preparatory drawings for the Disasters of War series, some of which, such as Women Surprised by Soldiers, were never engraved.

Line of provenance: Javier Goya, 1828; Mariano Goya, 1854; Valentín Carderera, ca. 1861; Mariano Carderera, 1880; Prado Museum, 12/11/1886.

ANÁLISIS ARTÍSTICO

See Women surprised by soldiers.

This drawing was included by Gassier and Wilson in the series of non-engraved preparatory drawings for the Disasters of War, despite the fact that it is executed in sepia wash, an unusual technique in the execution of these preparatory drawings, most of which are done in sanguine. The gouache has allowed Goya to establish a dense, dark nocturnal background, against which he has skilfully reserved the whites of the figures in the foreground, their light shirts and faces catching the light, which enters the scene from the left.

In the centre of the composition, a mob presided over by a prominent figure in a dazzling white shirt and armed with a knife attacks a figure lying on the ground, who raises his hands to defend himself from his assailants, whom he looks at with wild eyes. On the right, a rifle with bayonet penetrates the scene diagonally.
