HISTORIA

On the origin of this and other preparatory drawings for The Caprices, see the commentary on the first of them, corresponding to Caprice number 1 (Francisco de Goya y Lucientes, painter), and on the one corresponding to Caprice 3 (The bogeyman is Coming).

Line of provenance of this drawing: Javier Goya; Mariano Goya, 1854; Valentín Carderera, ca. 1861; Mariano Carderera, 1880; Prado Museum, 1886.

ANÁLISIS ARTÍSTICO

This drawing is the verso of Caprice 12. Hunting for teeth. It bears a certain resemblance to Caprice 75. Is there no one to untie us?, but even so it perhaps not a first idea for the engraving.

The image of two people tied to a tree and apparently begging to be untied was merely the plastic expression of an idea that was quite common in Goya's time. The position of the figures in the drawing. There is no one to untie us? (1) and in the final print allows for a much more harmonious composition than in the present drawing.

The monolithic effect of this couple reappears in Disorderly Folly, but exploited in a totally different context where the bizarre borders on the irrational.
